Chapter 260: The Divine Clones and Inner Worlds

The Twelve Divine Beings were not only beings of unimaginable power but also masters of strategic omnipresence. Their ability to manifest clones—ranging from a modest three to millions like the Shadow God, Sung Jin-Woo—ensured their influence and blessings could extend to every corner of the multiverse.

The Purpose of Divine Clones

The primary role of the main clones of the Twelve Divine Beings was to act as guardians of blessings, ensuring their followers, worshippers, and priests were bestowed with divine favor. These clones safeguarded the spiritual well-being of countless civilizations and maintained the delicate balance of power across the realms.

1. Guardians of Blessings: These clones were assigned to oversee divine shrines, temples, and sacred grounds.

2. Explorers and Observers: Some clones ventured into unexplored dimensions, observing and documenting the rise and fall of civilizations.

3. Warriors and Protectors: In times of crisis, specific clones acted as avatars of their creator's power, defending their dominion with unwavering might.

Inner Worlds of the Divine Beings

Each of the Twelve Divine Beings possessed inner worlds, personal dimensions reflecting their nature and serving as sources of power. The complexity and time dilation of these inner worlds varied greatly:

Number of Layers: Some divine beings had single-layered inner worlds, while others, like Sung Jin-Woo, boasted seven-layered worlds.

Time Dilation:

At its simplest, one day outside equaled one month inside.

At its peak, one second outside equaled one million years inside.

These inner worlds served as training grounds, sanctuaries, and laboratories for the divine beings and their clones. They honed their skills, cultivated their power, and created unimaginable wonders within these realms.

The Power of Creation

The Twelve Divine Beings wielded the power to create beings and objects of extraordinary nature:

1. Lesser Absolutes: Semi-divine entities endowed with fragments of the Absolute Crown’s power, created to govern realms and oversee universal order.

2. Butlers and Assistants: Perfectly loyal servants, materialized to maintain the castles and assist in divine duties.

3. Castle Guardians: Imposing protectors stationed at each of their divine castles, ensuring their sanctity was never violated.

4. Other Creations: The Twelve Divine Beings could create realms, ecosystems, and celestial objects as easily as they could draw breath.

Divine Tools and All-Seeing Eyes

Divine Tools

Each member of the Twelve Divine Beings possessed the ability to forge divine tools of the highest rank. These artifacts were imbued with mana and celestial power, capable of:

Destroying galaxies.

Enhancing their wielder's abilities.

Manipulating time, space, and reality itself.

All-Seeing Eyes

The All-Seeing Eyes were one of the Twelve Divine Beings' most powerful abilities. With these eyes, they could:

Observe any point in the multiverse.

Detect threats to their followers and realms.

Foresee potential outcomes and prepare for future events.

Even the blessings-related clones were granted the All-Seeing Eyes, ensuring no worshipper's prayers went unheard and no threat escaped detection.

The Divine Triad’s Role

While the Twelve Divine Beings were unparalleled in their creative and protective capacities, it was the Divine Triad—Sung Jin-Woo, Ashborn, and Sung Su-Ho—that maintained ultimate authority. The Twelve Divine Beings’ creations, blessings, and actions were always aligned with the overarching vision of the Divine Triad.

In this way, the Twelve Divine Beings not only demonstrated their divine mastery but also reinforced the unshakable hierarchy of power within the multiverse. Their creations, tools, and inner worlds served as testaments to their unparalleled capabilities, ensuring the eternal dominion of the Divine Triad.
